Commercial TVs VS Consumer TVs

What's the difference?

Commercial grade televisions are built to withstand constant use and harsh public environments. Whether you manage a long term care facility, restaurant or even an airport, you expect that your panels will provide entertainment and information in an always-on environment with no down time.

LG uses commercial grade components which are designed to expand the life of your flat panel. Key considerations such as heat, dust and humidity all play a role in the build quality of an LG commercial grade panel. Not only is the construction of a commercial grade panel superior to your panel at home, the “back end” infrastructure allows you to post content that is important to you with ease.

WHY DUCT FREE

- Air Quality
- Custom Comfort
- Reduced Energy Costs
- Lower Maintenance
- Easy Installation

Get rewarded with increased resident satisfaction!

A duct free system, also known as a “split” air conditioner system, is made up of two units: an indoor unit to deliver conditioned air to the room, and an outdoor unit to remove heat collected from the space. The compact refrigerant lines run between the two units. The system eliminates the need for ductwork. Duct free systems are not just ideal for facilities that have no ductwork, but also in rooms that just never seem to be the right temperature and are never comfortable.
